Geese are social animals and should not be kept alone. They should be provided with at least one companion goose.

Geese are hardy birds and can withstand cold weather. However, they need a warm place to sleep at night. A goose house or coop should be at least 6 feet long, 4 feet wide, and 3 feet tall. The house should be well-ventilated and have a roost for the geese to sleep on.

Housing

Geese can be housed in a variety of ways. The most common type of housing is a goose house or coop. Goose houses can be purchased or built. If you are building your own goose house, be sure to use sturdy materials and make sure the house is well-ventilated.

Another option for housing geese is a pasture. Pastures should be at least 1 acre in size and have access to water. Geese will need to be fenced in to keep them from wandering off.
